O'CALLAGHAN FREE PENDING DECISION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Secretary of Labor Wilson this afternoon ordered Daniel O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, who arrived at Newport News several days ago as a stowaway without a passport, released on his own recognizance, under parole.

The department of labor announced that this action was taken pending final decision of O'Callaghan's case and determination of whether he can legally remain here.

The state department will be appealed to by the secretary of labor, it was learned, to determine whether passport regulations for O'Callaghan can be waived.

The action taken by Secretary Wilson will make it possible for O'Callaghan to testify before the American committee investigating conditions in Ireland, the purpose for which he came to America.

BETTS'S BILLS ARE IN AGAIN

Among new legislation introduced in the senate and assembly at Albany Wednesday, the first session of the senate legislature were the following bills:

Charles H. Betts, Republican of Wayne county, introduced a bill which would repeal the daylight saving law. This is the bill which was vetoed by Governor Smith last year, and which undoubtedly will be passed by both houses of the legislature and enacted a law by Governor Miller. Assemblyman Betts may, however, introduce another bill which would give cities local option on daylight saving.

Assemblyman Betts also introduced a bill designed to put a stop to the printing of the session laws, and which in effect carries out one of the recommendations made by Governor Miller in his message.

A bill designed to make it a misdemeanor for any person to wear an American legion button without authority will be introduced in the assembly next week by Noel B. Fox, Republican, of New York.

Assemblyman Fox also prepared a bill making it mandatory for all cities of the state to use voting machines. The cities must begin next year, with at least a quarter of the number of machines that will be needed in an entire city, and they must have the complete equipment by 1924. Similar bills were introduced in the senate by Senator Schuyler Meyer and Ward Tolbert, Republicans of New York.

WALTON TO DRAFT PRIMARY REPEAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 6.—Senator Charles W. Walton of Ulster will father Governor Miller's legislative program to repeal the direct primary law. No decision has been reached as yet as to the scope of the repeal legislation. It has been definitely decided, however, that Governor Miller will call Senator Walton into conference shortly to draft the administration program to bring back the nominating conventions.

The return to the convention system for nominating state and judicial offices is assured. Governor Miller would personally go further, and include congressional county and city offices in the repeal of the Hughes direct primary law, but a wave of adverse sentiment has already reached the executive chamber.

Direct primary legislation will be considered at conferences of Republican leaders in New York city, Friday and Saturday. Governor Miller will have a part in Saturday's conference. Whether the Republican party can afford to go further than its declarations in the Saratoga platform, when it recommended the repeal of the law in reference to state and judicial offices, is a thorn in certain circles of the Republican ranks. It is expected several measures asking for the repeal of the law will be presented, but the Walton measure will be the only one representing the governor's program.

MEXICO MUST SATISFY HARDING

Negotiations to Start in Spring Will End in Prompt Recognition if Obregon Guarantees American Rights.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Marion, O., Jan. 5.—Friendly but firm. That is the way close counsellors of President-elect Harding outline the policy of the next administration towards Mexico. Consideration of recognition of the Obregon government will not be delayed long after March 4, it was learned today on unquestioned authority. In fact it said that several candidates for secretary of state are now familiarizing themselves with Mexican conditions by way of preparation.

Recognition, however, must be based upon a firm and unalterable understanding, it was made plain. That understanding may extend far enough to include revision of the Mexican constitution, it was said. Recognition will provide, it is said, first, for friendly conversations between the secretary of state and the accredited representative of the Obregon government at that time.

Following these conversations, it is probable that a joint commission will meet to draft, accept and interpret the terms of agreement upon which recognition and all future relationship between the two countries will be based, it is said.

According to present plans, it is indicated, those who will act as the United States representatives or advisors, will include Senator Albert B. Fall, a close student of Mexican affairs; John Hays Hammond who is intimately in touch with the situation both through his business experience and through his personal life in Mexico. Former Attorney General Wickersham, legal representative of the American stockholders of Mexican railways and a representative of the banking group associated with former Mexican loans. The latter probably will be James Speyer, of New York.

NOLAN PROBABLY LABOR SECRETARY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 6.—Reports emanating from Marion that President-elect Harding is having considerable difficulty in determining upon a secretary of labor have been received with great interest in labor circles in Washington.

While the "Federation crowd," of which Samuel Gompers is the leader, realizes that it is in none too great favor with the Harding administration, due to Gompers's open espousal of Governor Cox during the campaign—it nevertheless has never relaxed its militant watchfulness or has it decreased its insistence that the new secretary of labor must be a man acceptable to organized labor.

While organized labor desires a man from its own ranks, one who holds a card, it nevertheless will accept Herbert Hoover, should the president-elect designate Mr. Hoover for the post.

Hoover recently held a conference with the executive council with the A. F. of L. here. They describe him as "fair, open minded" and "properly sympathetic" towards the principles of organized labor. Furthermore, he is an advocate of collective bargaining, and labor is convinced that if Harding selects him to sit in the cabinet labor will have a friend in court.

Labor advocates here generally incline towards the belief that Senator Harding ultimately will appoint Representative John Nolan of California to the post. Nolan is close to Senator Hiram Johnson. It is gossiped in labor circles that Johnson has demanded a place for California in the cabinet and that Johnson distinctly regards Herbert Hoover as "unacceptable." Nolan is a union man, one of the few in congress. He holds a card in the International Moulders' Union.

RETAILERS SHOW THEIR FORESIGHT

Recommend That Snow, if it Comes, Be Removed From Roads Leading Into Town—Special Sales Days in Spring.

More expeditious removal of snow from the city streets and the main highways leading into Kingston, beginning with the Saugerties road from the city line to the Saugerties village line, will be attempted, in the event that there is any snow to remove, if the recommendations of the Retail Branch of the Chamber of Commerce are followed. At a meeting of that body, held Wednesday evening, presided over by W. H. Rudderham and attended by some of the principal merchants of the city, cooperation with the city in a more rigid enforcement of the ordinance for cleaning sidewalks was urged and the plan for using a snow plow to open streets and roads was endorsed. If the city buys a plow an arrangement will be made to lease the machine and use it in opening the Saugerties road to traffic.

A special committee to investigate fire insurance rates and endeavor to obtain a reduction was appointed. Although our fire losses are low, the base rate here is higher than in Middletown, Newburgh or Poughkeepsie, notwithstanding improvements in fire protection made under promise that they would result in reduced rates.

It was decided to arrange for a series of sales days, beginning in May, and to have a spring display on March 17, 18 and 19, all retailers cooperating. Messrs. Stelle, Greenwald and Eighmey were appointed to formulate plans and arrange details.

Mr. Lovin was appointed chairman of a committee to arrange for "a real dinner" in the near future, probably on the date of the regular February meeting.

It was voted to recommend that all retailers except grocers, butchers, druggists, confectioners, cigar dealers, etc., close their store at 5:30 daily except Saturday during January and February.

The Chamber of Commerce was urged to compile and publish a booklet containing train and auto bus time tables, and it was stated this would have been done long ago had the auto bus men cooperated.

Messrs. Rose, Gorman, Cohen, Eighmey, Warren, Rudderham and Gregory were appointed a committee to plan and ascertain probable expense of advertising Kingston in the surrounding country as a retail trading place.

The beginning made on Abel street by the Board of Public Works in carrying out a request of the Retail Branch that the city entrances be marked with "Welcome" signs was strongly commended.

It was resolved unanimously and with enthusiasm that the Retail Branch cooperate with the Committee on Agricultural Relations in extending support to the Ulster County Farm Bureau in any campaign for obtaining memberships in the Farm Bureau in this city.

CHURCHILL AND FOCH TO CONFER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Jan. 6.—The forthcoming conference of Winston Churchill, British secretary for war, and Marshal Foch, in Paris, will relate to the menace of Bolshevism, not only in Russia but in the allied nations themselves, it was learned from an official source at Whitehall today.

The British officials consider the red situation acute. They fear attacks by Russia against her neighbors in the spring. Also they are apprehensive over the possibility of Bolshevik agitation outside of Russia.

It is reported to be the present view of the British government that the dangers of Bolshevism are greater than those arising from Germany's inability to disarm all her citizens. A marked difference of opinion has developed on this question between Marshal Foch and the British. The British question Marshal Foch's views as to the extent and speed of German disarmament. British officials are inclined to the position that Marshal Foch overestimates the danger of Germany and under estimates the danger of Bolshevism.

Secretary of War Churchill is expected to present facts that will convince Marshal Foch that his plans regarding Germany are unsafe.

"IRISH-AMERICAN" NAMED IN PLOT

British White Paper To Claim That Leader In New York Was Brains Of Scheme To Use Ireland As Means For Germans To Reach England.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Jan. 6.—The "white paper" which the British government has prepared to substantiate Premier Lloyd-George's allegation of Irish assistance to the Germans during the war will contain proof that plans were undertaken for the landing of German troops in Ireland, it was learned from an authoritative source today.

The "white paper" will be issued within a few days. According to information from an authentic source, the document will name an "Irish-American" leader in New York as the chief intermediary in the German-Irish plotting. He was mentioned as the "brains of the conspiracy" and to him was ascribed the instigation of practically all of the negotiations. Many of these negotiations, it is said, occurred through agents in New York.

Certain cabinet influences advocated the elimination of his name from the document, fearing the possible effect upon Anglo-American relations. However, the report is expected to appear as it was written.

The report is said to say little regarding German submarine bases on the Irish coast, but goes at some length into the allegation that the plotters proposed the landing of German troops on the Irish coast for the dual purpose of wiping out the British garrisons in Ireland and establishing a base for a military attack upon England.

The government took months for the arrangement of its revelations. Considerable time was lost because a certain member of the cabinet insisted upon writing the introduction. The document details the history of the Casement plot, picking Sir Roger Casement as a visionary who expected that his mere appearance in Ireland would cause an uprising in Ireland. Casement was sent to Ireland from Germany. He was arrested, tried and executed as a spy.

Premier Lloyd-George's charge of an Irish-German plot was made in a speech at Carnarvon, Wales.

MISS CAMPBELL STILL LIVING

The condition of Miss Dorothy Campbell, the 23 year old girl who attempted suicide in Catskill Tuesday night by taking poison, remains the same. While the girl has small chance for recovery, everything is being done to save her life at the Benedictine Sanitarium, this city, where she was taken Tuesday night.

Miss Campbell is the daughter of Leo Campbell of 106 West Thirteenth street, New York city. She went to Catskill in search of Vancott Duncan, a Catskill man, who broke his arm playing basketball almost a year ago, and was treated in a New York hospital. Failing to find Duncan, she told the doctors she took bichloride of mercury.

At 9:30 o'clock Tuesday night residents of Prospect street, Catskill, were aroused by shrieks. Rushing from her home, Miss Catherine Pettingill found Miss Campbell writhing in pain at the gate of a nearby residence.

She told Miss Pettingill that she had taken poison, and was then carried to the Pettingill residence where Dr. George L. Brannch and Dr. Lyle E. Honerfort, the coroner, were summoned. Antidotes were administered, and the girl was rushed to the Benedictine Sanitarium in this city where she was attended by Drs Mark O'Meara and Harry P. Van Wagenen.

1,800 CHILDREN AT FREE MOVIE

Eighteen hundred school children, accompanied by teachers or volunteer chaperones, witnessed the motion picture, "The Son of Tarzan," as the guest of Resident Manager George H. Gildersleeve at the Keeney Theatre Wednesday afternoon.

Besides the famous "Tarzan" picture, Manager Gildersleeve displayed several educational films, including scene in France; the film of weekly events throughout the United States and one of the best animated cartoons of the season.

Anticipating a big crowd, Manager Gildersleeve requested Chief Chipp of the fire department and Chief of Police Wood to detail extra men to theatre duty, which they did. The huge crowd, which filled every available foot of space, was handled in a most satisfactory manner.

Failure of the Parent-Teachers' Association to chaperone the children did not interfere with the attendance of the children, as many parents volunteered their services which, with the services of teachers, provided the children with an ample number of chaperones.

CROWDER MEETS CUBANS TODAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 6.—During the conferences with Cuban officials which began in Havana today, Major General Enoch H. Crowder, special representative of President Wilson, will discuss the Cuban political and economic situation not only with President Menocal, but also with judges of the supreme court, members of the election boards and leaders of the liberal party, or the faction which is opposed to Menocal.

The "full" power with which President Wilson clothed Crowder would be sufficient to demand changes officials explained today, but it is believed they will be accomplished without friction.

General Crowder wrote the Cuban election laws and therefore is the logical authority to interpret them.

Reports from Havana that President Menocal would decline to receive General Crowder, on the ground of no previous notification, were not credited today. State department officials said that Minister Long at Havana was duly informed of General Crowder's coming and instructed to notify President Menocal.

Refusal to receive General Crowder would be an almost fatal blunder for Menocal, as the general has all the authority held by William Howard Taft in 1906 and is perfectly free to recommend intervention if he sees fit. Attention was also called to the fact that the Atlantic fleet, on its way to join the Pacific squadron for maneuvers in southern waters, is ideally located for an impressive parade before Havana. At the state department, however, the belief was reiterated that intervention would not be necessary.

One of the points upon which General Crowder will lay particular emphasis, is the absolute necessity of there being no further extension of the moratorium. The state department takes the attitude that moratoriums work undue hardships on sound insitutions and at the same time fail to correct unsound financial conditions.

It was intimated today that if General Crowder comes to a satisfactory understanding with Menocal, the Cuban president will be asked to give certain guarantees as an earnest of good faith. What form those guarantees will take was not made plain.

TWO SCHOOLS FOR THE FARMER

But Instructors Promise Not to Use the Birch Rod—Practical Help Given by Experts.

Two "schools" for farmers to be held at Kerhonkson and Gardiner, is one of the things which County Agent E. L. Chase is putting on as a part of the program of the Farm Bureau for better farming in those communities.

While the lectures and demonstrations in practical farm problems which are given at these sessions by instructors from the state college of agriculture at Ithaca are called "schools," no one wants to get the idea that the folks who attend have to sit in "position" and be in fear of "teacher's" birch rod, says the county agent. The work is given in a most informal way and is decidedly practical; no fine spun theories which have not stood the test of actual practice are presented, he declares. The instructors will be Professors Boutelle and Wiggans, of the state college of agriculture at Ithaca.

Mr. Chase will be able to give you some further details concerning the schools, together with the place they will be held, and the full programs. The dates for Kerhonkson are January 20 to 22 and for Gardiner January 17 to 19, inclusive. Anyone who would like to know more about the schools so they may be able to plan their work ahead to enable them to attend will be given all the information now available if they will call on County Agent Chase at his office in Kingston, or if they will telephone him.

POSTAL SAVINGS SYSTEM'S GROWTH

The United States Postal Savings system on December 27, 1920, celebrated its tenth anniversary by issuing a new postal savings card displacing the 10-cent postal savings card which has been in use since the establishment of the system on January 1, 1911.

The new card is furnished free of cost and when ten-cent postal savings stamps have been affixed to it will be accepted at any depository office as a deposit of $1 or it may be redeemed in cash. The outstanding feature of the new card is the translation into twenty-four foreign languages of the statement that the faith of the United States is solemnly pledged to the payment of deposits made with the system.

The service was first established at forty-eight post offices, one in each state, on January 1, 1911, and, although hampered by many restrictions as to rate of interest and maximum amount allowed on deposit, it has shown remarkable progress. Postmaster General Burleson announces that the amount on deposit today is more than $162,000,000 and its depositors have long since passed the one-half million mark.

As predicted by its proponents in the days before the passage of the original Postal Savings Act, our foreign born citizens have been the the principal patrons of the system. Taught in their native countries to look to the government to safeguard their savings, they naturally expect this government to do likewise. In the present flood tide of immigration, each newcomer as he leaves the port of entry, receives a leaflet in his own language outlining the method of operation of the United States Postal Savings System and urging upon him the desirability of continuing in this country the practice of thrift which has been so necessary in the country he has just left. The service is therefore one of the most potent factors in furthering the Americanization movement.

Many banks, usually savings banks prior to the establishment of the system felt that the Postal Savings System would be a strong competitor but experience has shown that the Postal Savings System draws its patrons not from depositors in established and well conducted banks but from those who otherwise would not place their money in any banking institution whatever.

The original act of congress restricted the total amount to be placed on deposit at $500 and the deposit of this amount was limited to not more than $100 per month Later the monthly limitation was entirely removed and the maximum amount increased first to $1,000 and then to the present amount, $2,500. Postmaster General Burleson, in the annual report just submitted to congress recommends increasing the rate of interest to be paid depositors and action by congress will, no doubt, be taken along these lines within the near future.

The Postal Savings System was started in Kingston in 1911, and many thousands of the people's savings have been deposited. The depositary is at the Post Office Building, Broadway and Prince street.

VEILS IN DEMAND

Countless Ways of Draping and Each One Is Very Much in the Mode.

The enthusiasm over veils continues unabated. It has reached the point where it might also be termed a frenzy. Women have taken veils so seriously that they spend hours adjusting them.

Never in the history of the world has the veil been in such high favor. The matter of draping it has come to be an art. There are countless ways and each one very much in the mode. This is one part of dress in which women may be individual. The more so, the better. Just as no two people draw alike, no two do any piece of drapery in the same way, and this applies to veils.

The day when the veil was worn just as its name implies, as something to shadow the faces and flatter the wearer by concealing any traces of [illegible] or to soften the effect of rouge and powder, has passed. While it is still worn for these purposes, the principal role today is that of a graceful piece of drapery.

It would never be possible to put more personality into the wearing of a hat or dress as into the wearing of a veil. Every woman has a deft little way of her own in its arrangement. In this the greatest originality prevails.

The flowing veil may be of almost any length. Some veils hang almost to the bottom of the skirt and many well down around the hips. At the front they may merely conceal the [illegible] just over the nose, or fall to the knees.

Hats of bright colors or beautiful light shades of brown are shadowed by huge black chantilly lace veils.

Embroidered tulle takes its place with the laces and the nets of hexagon mesh. The color of the veil is a matter to be given consideration. Black is the favorite. Then come browns and the shade known as blond. Very little white is used. When it appears at all it is among the novelties. Women have been known, in their devotion to this fashion, to appear in white veils that reach to their knees.

CHIC CHAPEAU WINS FAVOR

Those who know assert this hat is one of the prettiest to make its appearance. It is not lavish but it is neat. It is black satin and is trimmed with downward pointing black wings.

COST OF LAW ENFORCEMENT.

Duplication of work by state departments evidently has received considerable study by Governor Miller whose campaign promises seem likely of fulfilment. His inaugural address referred to the "disorder, extravagance and waste" in state administration, and his message indicates that he intends to attempt a remedy by the abolition or consolidation of departments and bureaus. The full extent to which he believes in abolishing state supervision and regulation will develop later.

Most men appointed to public office make an honest effort to perform their work, and failure to accomplish results is more often the result of ignorance and incompetence than dishonest motives. In extenuation of such officials it is urged that "He is a fair average citizen—what more can you expect?" But it is noticeable that the class of men who put forward this excuse avoid the employment of such incompetents to do their own work. Instead, they seek and employ people of ability and skill. So do successful industrial concerns. The public is entitled to skill when it pays for it, but the average man or woman is too busily engaged with personal affairs to inquire whether public affairs are being administered rightly. They do not know whether they are getting a dollar's return for a dollar paid or whether the return is only ten cents.

New laws each year are so numerous that the means of enforcement are not given much consideration. It is easier to create a new department than to gather together the available but idle official and clerical machinery already in existence. The new law usually creates a new enforcement bureau which is clothed with authority that would not be granted if mature consideration were given the subject. Where not specifically granted, the authority is assumed. The Volstead Act, for instance, is being enforced by men whose previous experience in many cases had been limited to mixing and serving drinks. Thus to some extent Prohibition enforcement took care of men whose unemployment because of the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment had been a source of genuine distress and sympathy. But it is doubtful if the Volstead Act could not have been enforced with as much as if not greater success than at present by assigning the enforcement duty to agencies already existing. Unlimited power conferred on the new bureau resulted in drastic regulations intended to satisfy the most ardent Prohibitionist, but impossible or impracticable of enforcement because of conflict with other government regulations, or the personnel of the enforcing staff.

The demands of the radical and the inexperienced are so immediately insistent that efficiency is overlooked. Inefficiency not only costs money but results in neutralizing or destroying the purpose intended to be accomplished. Thus is created disrespect for the law itself and gradually disregard of many laws. Then unless public sentiment asserts itself by repeal of the obnoxious law, more laws are passed to remedy conditions created in the first place by inattention to fundamental principles. By the time the courts have settled conflicts of laws and authority, an entirely new crop of laws and amendments comes up for review and the circle is again traveled. But during all that time the public has been footing the bill without getting results.

THE CRIME WAVE.

Various reasons have been assigned for the crime-wave which has swept the country, but which apparently centered largely in New York city. Of the explanations offered one analysis seems to stand out prominently. That criminals have ceased to respect the law and that they no longer fear what punishment may be meted out to them is the decision of the majority of men who come in contact with the offenders. Magistrates are now advocating heavier sentences, higher bail and more rigid discipline in the penal institutions.

One of the magistrates in New York city stated definitely that the number of criminals had increased appreciably since the new method of treating convicts had been adopted and he also attributed the increase to weak parole laws which he said permitted paroled men to write a letter once a month, saying they were living righteous lives when all that the letter contained had to be taken for face value. The falling down of the system which was attacked as being inhuman, but which had some effect on the law breakers, was given as the main reason why the criminal laughed at a "bit up the river," knowing that to spend a few months there would not be a hardship. It was also added that the criminal realized that after he did his "bit" he would not be ostracised but on the contrary would be "lionized."

There were those interested in the subject who were confident that the idea of pampering and petting the murderer and highwayman would eventually cause a reaction that would check this trend once and for all. This impression was not that of the so-called old-time prison man but was that of those who sincerely believe in reforms that are founded on fact and not on fiction. Many who were interested in the subject retired from active participation knowing that it was dangerous to try to make bankers out of burglars, merchants out of murderers, and prelates out of pickpockets. There were those who saw that the pendulum was swinging so far away from fixed principles that it was bound to injure that cause of sane reforms.

FIRST CONDENSED MILK.

Horlick Originated From That is Very Widely Used.

The process for condensing milk to a semi-liquid form, with cane sugar, was patented in France in the year 1810, by De Heine.

Newton, of England, in the year 1835, first used the vacuum process for condensing milk with cane sugar. This also was in semi-liquid form, and others have merely elaborated upon this process.

Horlick, of Racine, Wisconsin, after experimenting for several years discovered, in 1883, the process for evaporating full-cream milk with the extract of malted grains, reduced to a dry powder form, without cane sugar, or other preservatives, which would keep indefinitely in any climate, and named it Malted Milk. This was a revolutionary achievement, being the first time in history that full-cream milk was reduced to a powder that could be carried in a dry, soluble form, to any part of the world. When this powder is stirred in water for a few seconds, all the constituents of fresh full-cream milk are available. It makes a palatable, nourishing food-drink for all, in sickness or health, "from infancy to old age."

COTTEKILL.

Cottekill, Jan. 5.—The women of the Cottekill M. E. Church will hold their annual supper in the M. E. Church Hall on Wednesday evening, January 19. This year they have decided to give a hot pork supper instead of chicken as formerly. The women of Cottekill are known as the Blue Ribbon society for fine dinners and this will be no exception. The menu will consist of fresh baked hams with brown gravy, mashed potatoes, baked beans, celery, cranberry sauce, pickles, cheese, tea and coffee, cake and ice cream. Supper will be served from 6 o'clock until all are served. A general invitation is extended to all to come and enjoy a fine supper and get reacquainted with friends and neighbors. J. P. Cronan proprietor of the former hotel property in the village corner of Main street and Lucas avenue has kindly offered his commodious sheds and carriage house free to all who wish to avail themselves of the use of such.

Mrs. Stephen Phillips has closed her summer residence in this village for the season and gone to Kingston where she will spend the winter at the home of her son, George, at 229 Smith avenue.

The Boy Scouts of America, Troop No. 1, of Cottekill under the direction of Scout Master L. R. Conner gave a free entertainment and watch night service in the Mechanics' Hall this village on New Year's Eve to a large and appreciative audience consisting of the members of the troop, their parents and invited guests. After several stunts a lunch consisting of sandwiches, cake, coffee, cream, etc., was served free to all. Promptly at 12 o'clock a hearty greeting of the New Year was extended to one and all. A good night and all returned to their homes feeling they had enjoyed a pleasant and instructive evening as well as a splendid lunch from Boy Scout Troop No. 1.

L. R. Conner has purchased a tract of land on what is known as Look-a-way Hill to the south east of the village and is making extensive improvements on same and in the spring will build a house there.

The Friendly Order of Ladies which has held several meetings the past fall first at the home of Mrs. Stephen Phillips, president of the order, then at the residence of Mrs. Henry Keator, secretary, and at the residence of Mrs. Jacob Darley, treasurer, and the residence of Mrs. J. H. Locke, trustee for 3 years, will meet next at the residence of Mrs. Anna Satterlee, trustee for 2 years, date of meeting given later.

On Sunday evening the Rev. J. E. Usher, pastor of the M. E. Church, will preach a New Year's sermon, this being his [illegible] service in New Year's at this place. Service will commence at 7 o'clock sharp.

HARDING BACK, RESUMES TALKS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Marion, O., Jan. 6.—Senator Harding was entitled to more degrees than the official thermometer registered, when he began his cold trip back from Columbus today. The president-elect showed no ill-effects from his long and strenuous session yesterday when he was raised to the thirty-second degree of Masonry.

Senator Beveridge, of Indiana, and Senator Sherman, of Illinois, were waiting to talk to him when he reached home

Each was expected to discuss at length the Harding plan for an association of nations and also to talk over the legislative program of the senate at the present and special sessions.

Senator Sherman is national committeeman from Illinois. State affairs played an important part in his conversation with the senator, it is understood.

Daniel Polling, prohibition leader and officer of the Associated Societies of Christian Endeavor, was scheduled to arrive today to urge on the president-elect the rigid enforcement of the eighteenth amendment.

LEONE'S MESSAGE

To Newsboys, of Whom Number He Once Was One.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 6.—One time a newsboy on the streets of New York, today secretary of state and head of the world's biggest automobile bureau, with hundreds of employes to do his bidding. Such, in brief, is the story of John J. Lyons, successor to Francis M. Hugo, a story of hard work and hard knocks, yet brightened with a personality that has helped in paving the road to success, first as a newsboy and later to the many important positions which Mr. Lyons has held.

To the thousands of newsboys, shouting their wares, or plodding along their routes, the new secretary of state has a message, it is short and to the point. "Do your work, and do it well. Seek to make the occasional patron your friend, and he will soon become regular. A smile goes a long ways in this world."

Hundreds came to Albany last Saturday to congratulate the one-time newsboy as he assumed the duties of one of the largest and most important departments in New York state affairs.

AT THE THEATRES.

Al. Lemons tops the fun at the Opera Hous these days with the new musical comedy attraction in Kingston presented by Orth and Coleman. Manager Oldersleeve has been trying to get this company to play Kingston for the past three seasons and only by chance was he able enough to get them at this time. Kingston theatregoers are showing by their attendance that they, too, like the company. Tonight Lemon's big dancing contest is scheduled. Tomorrow a new bill will be presented.

Ethel Clayton in "A Lady in Love" will be presented at Keeney's tonight the story of a girl who lost her heart in romantic infatuation and thought she had found the greatest thing in the world. But when she learned that the man she'd eloped with was another woman's husband—then her adventures in real love began. Tomorrow and Saturday Charles Ray in "Paris Green." Another one of those wholesome, human country boy stories that make Charles Ray one of the best loved actors on the screen.

"Tex," elucidator of mysteries in "The House of Mystery," is showing at the Auditorium tonight. Charlie Chaplin in "The Cure" is also programmed. "Are You Legally Married" will be at the Auditorium tomorrow.

Johnnie had a little lamb
As black as a rubber shoe.

That little sheep went too.
If John had raised it sheep club way

With lots of fodder in the rack
It wouldn't be so doggone black!

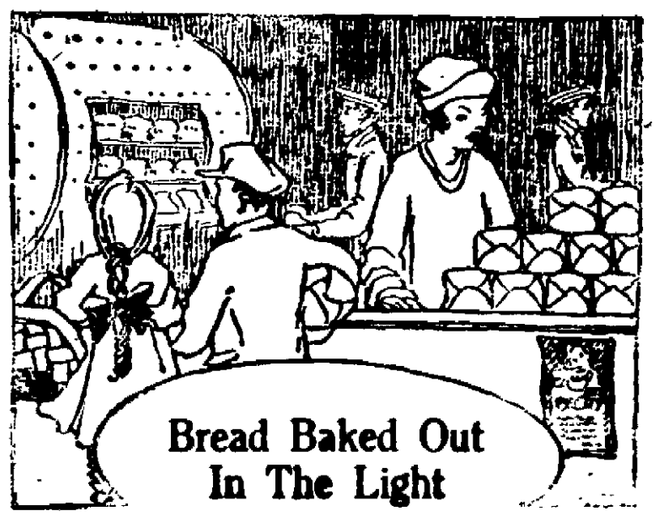

A good winter job, some day when it's not too cold, is to go over the fences and put them in proper shape.

When you see some of the unattractive farm houses on otherwise up-to-date farms, you hardly wonder that the boys and girls have gone to the city.

Uncle Ab says: One of the best reasons for makin' a good farm is to rouse a spirit of competition in the fellows on the other side of your line fence.

To teach the farmer the best methods of increasing production is exceedingly important, but not more vitally so than the importance of teaching him the best and most economical methods of distribution.—Asbury F. Lever.

Make your woodland permanently profitable by protecting it from fire and from overgrazing; select for cutting only the mature, defective, overcrowded and inferior kinds of trees, leaving the straight, thrifty, and better kinds to grow for a future crop. The state college of agriculture at Ithaca will send you a bulletin on the improvement of the woodlot if you ask for F-12.

the tree and carried her through two feet of snow over a mountain trail a half mile to his cabin. His father was summoned and they called Dr. W. S. Fleming of Kremmling.

Coroner F. E. Barnard was summoned from Hot Sulphur Springs and took charge of the body. He announced death was instantaneous, the tree having struck the woman on the back of the head and neck.

Mrs. Heldman came to Kremmling four years ago with her family from Wray, Colo. She is survived by her husband, two sons, John and Vere, of Kremmling, and three daughters, Mrs. Earl Reams of Martin, Colo., Mrs. Benjamin A. INHERITS CORK LEG OF CHUM

Poor California Man Now Uses Limb That Carried More Fortunate Friend.

San Francisco.—"When I am dead and gone you shall have my leg to walk on, Jim."

This is what Henry Marsh once said to his old friend, James W. Phelps. And it has come to pass, for Phelps called at the coroner's office recently on crutches, but walked away without them.

Years ago Marsh and Phelps became friends. Their intimacy grew out of the fact that each had met with an accident which deprived him of the left leg.

Marsh was successful and was able to buy an expensive artificial leg to get about on. But Phelps, always poor, was compelled to hobble about on crutches.

Occasionally Phelps would call on Marsh at the latter's home on Sunday morning. Quite often he would borrow Marsh's artificial leg and go for a walk. Meanwhile Marsh would sit at home reading until Phelps returned.

Those were days of delight for Phelps. So it was one Sunday that Marsh promised him his artificial leg on his death.

Marsh shot and killed himself July 17 at his cigar stand. It was a plain case for the coroner and the public administrator.

Phelps' claim to the artificial leg of his dead friend was established to the satisfaction of the authorities, and now he has disposed of his crutches.

Children Saved by Flivver From Bull

Centerville, Del. — Deputy Sheriff Thomas K. Parker rescued two children from an enraged bull here, and then fought the animal with his flivver until he had put it to rout.

The children, six and eight years old, were on their way home from school when they met the bull, which had escaped from a pasture and was on the Kennett pike. Just as Parker came along the bull, which had been roaring and tearing at the ground, started for them.

Parker put on "gas," and beating the bull to the children, got them into his car. He then reversed and charged the bull from the rear. The bovine, surprised by this new opponent, turned tail and rushed down the pike.

Yule for Christmas.

"Yule" is the old name for Christmas, and is still used in Scotland and the north of England, and originated in the term "Yuleing." It was originally in England and Scandinavia the festival of the winter solstice.

MAN GIVES UP TO SEE MOTHER

Absconding Postmaster Surrenders After Two Years of Dodging Officers.

IS CHANGED BY INJURY

Dual Personality Results From Automobile Accident, Man Claims—Fear of Capture Haunted Him for Months.

Chicago.—On Halloween in 1916 a recklessly driven automobile crashed into a telephone pole on a highway near Falls Creek, Pa., hurling three joy riders to the pavement. One of the trio was Joseph A. McGrath, 24 years old, a law student.

Shortly after the accident, McGrath told federal officials recently, he developed a dual personality. There were days when he was normal, in possession of all his faculties. There were days of splitting headaches, when time seemed to pass in a haze. He worked to save when he was normal. At other times he was a spendthrift.

A Good Job—and Trouble.

When the war began he tried to enlist, but the examining physician refused to pass him. "Psycho-something," the doctor said.

The home folks pitied McGrath. Somebody thought of the postoffice. He was made postmaster. For a time he prospered. He had only his mother to support; she was the only girl he wished, he said. Then he began to have trouble. On the days when his mind seemed in a haze his accounts were usually short.

In September, 1918, an inspector found something was wrong with the books. He told McGrath he would call again. When he arrived McGrath was gone. So was $1,000.

A few days ago McGrath, emaciated, beard a month old, eyes sunken and furtive, stopped "Al," the elevator man at the federal building and asked for a deputy marshal. He was sent away. Three times he returned before he was permitted to go to the eighth floor, where he surrendered to Deputy Marshal Tom Smith.

"The federal people in Falls Creek want me," he explained. "I was postmaster there two years ago. I was short in my accounts."

The deputy marshal took him to the back room, bought a dinner.

"I never have seen my mother since the day I left," said McGrath. "I didn't dare to write home. I haven't heard a word.

"I Want to See My Mother."

"I haven't dared to get a good job. I have worked hard at what I could find, but I couldn't get ahead.

"I'd work in one place until I could not stand the down and outers any longer; then I'd move. I became a wanderer. Fear of capture haunted me. I wanted to live with real people again and most of all I wanted to see my mother. But all the time I was afraid.

"Yesterday I got to thinking. I didn't know whether mother was alive or dead. I couldn't stand it any longer, so I'm here."

REUNITED AFTER 45 YEARS

Sisters Meet in Minneapolis First Time Since Leaving Home as Girls.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Reunion of two sisters who had not seen each other for 45 years, when they were young girls together in their father's home in Green Bay, Wis., took place when Mrs. J. R. Flynn of Rapid River, Mich., met her sister, Mrs. Pete Sorrell of St. Paul, in the home of Mrs. Flynn's daughter, Mrs. J. M. Carlton, 315 Twenty-Seventh street west.

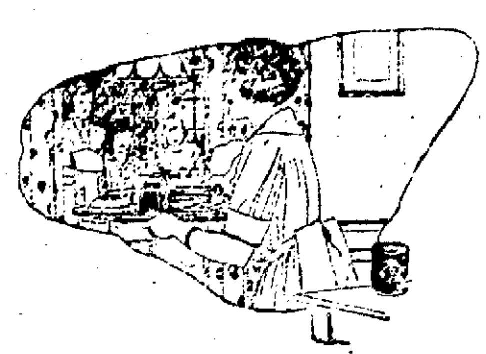

Mrs. Flynn is the mother of ten children, and Mrs. Sorrell is the mother of a family of nine. The reunion for Mrs. Flynn was not only one with her sister, but also with her sister's children, whom she had not seen.

After the sisters were married, at early ages, their ways never happened to meet. Wrapped up in the interests of their new families, they stayed apart for 45 years, while their respective families grew to maturity.

BALLOONISTS, NOT YET AT RAILROAD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mattice, Ont., Jan. 6.—Snow flurries which may presage a heavy storm led to fears today that the three American balloonists may not arrive at the borderland of civilization until Sunday, if they decide to come to Mattice, instead of following the trail to Cochrane. A strong wind was blowing out of the north, piling the snow into huge drifts.

The Indian who brought the balloonists' message from the Hudson Bay trading post at Moose Factory, is still at Mattice. He, like all Indian trappers, is an expert on the weather and trail conditions. He said the men might stop over at Long Portage, if the snow grows heavier and the wind grows stronger.

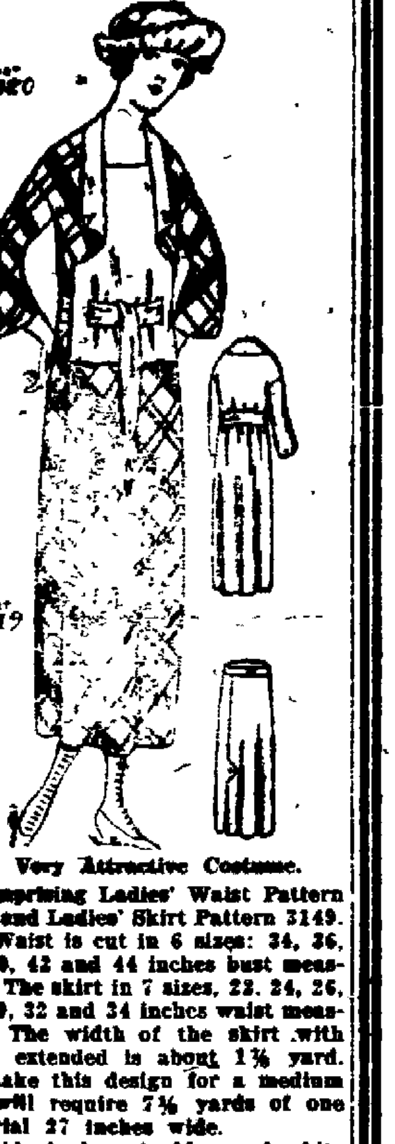

There were only a few dogs available at Moose Factory when the Indian departed and he said that only one team might be available for use by the Americans. Frequent stops would have to be made to rest the "huskies" because of the heavy load they were drawing.

It was certain that the travellers would stop at Long Portage for a rest even if weather conditions were perfect. Long Portage is a Hudson Bay half way post furnishing accommodations for the voyageurs of the north.

(Note: When Georges McLeod, the Indian trapper, left Moose Factory the balloonists were planning to bring their balloon back with them, but later word received from Moose Factory at Cochrane, Ont., said that the Americans had decided to leave the balloon behind, because it could not be extricated from amongst the trees in which it had fallen. The absence of baggage generally makes traveling much better and faster.)

If they should decide to follow the trail to Cochrane they will follow the Missanabie route. McLeod estimated it would take the men nearly two weeks to reach here if they came by the Missanbie River trail

MILLER GETS BEHIND PROGRAM

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Important measures on the Republican administration program will be put in shape for introduction when the legislature convenes Wednesday night, at a series of conferences over the week end in New York. Governor Miller will go to New York Saturday to participate.

When the legislature reconvenes, Governor Miller will have another message waiting to submit. He will discuss one of the two subjects now under consideration. What it will be the governor did not reveal but it is expected the message will treat with direct primaries or prohibition enforcement.

These two most important subjects on the governor's legislative program are to be the subject of the week end conferences. Senator Charles W. Walton of Ulster, will have charge of the direct primaries repeal legislation, which will call for the restoration of the state and judicial conventions. It is not likely that the repeal will go further than this although organization leaders are asking for a restoration of the convention system even in local elections.

Law enforcement legislation, according to the governor's forecast, will be "simple," conformable to the eighteenth amendment and "enforceable by peace officers as other laws are enforced," thus opening the state courts to violations of the prohibition laws and meeting the wishes of those who wish the amendment enforced.

Another of Governor Miller's early communications to the legislature will deal with waterpower.

He believes that the state must protect its valuable waterpowers, now wasted, and guard against federal interference.

WARRANT OUT FOR BOARDWAY

In Campaign to Clean Up O'Connor's Force and Smash "Whiskey Ring" —Alleged Kingston Man Padded Expense Account.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 6.—Another arrest was made here this afternoon in connection with the government's campaign to wipe out the "whiskey ring" that is alleged to be behind the forgery of permits used to draw $3,000,000 worth of whiskey from warehouses. Lawrence Mallawista, an agent of the National Surety Company, was arrested on a charge of conspiracy. He is accused of having sought to obtain a basic withdrawal permit by bribery.

Prohibition Director Charles O'Connor announced today that he would not raise the ban on further withdrawals for at least a week. Withdrawals were suspended until agents could check up every permit that has been issued in the past.

Bench warrants were issued today for the arrest of two prohibition agents, Daniel F. McMannis of Binghamton, and Fred E. Boardway of Kingston. They are alleged to have padded their expense accounts, by charging for lodging at the Hotel Ansonia, at a time when they were not stopping there.

Miss Katherine Foody, daughter of the late Police Captain Foody, formerly attached to the prohibition commissioner's office, was also arrested today.

She is charged with conspiracy in having aided the securing of forged withdrawal permits.

Fred E. Boardway, who lives at 37 Henry street was in the employ of the Hotel Mitchell before joining the dry enforcement forces. He was accused last summer of being involved in a liquor scandal near New York but in court the dealer involved was unable to identify him and the charge was dropped.

Algerian Bazars.

The most Arab-like picturesqueness in Algeria is found by plunging into the little cross streets that zigzag up the hillsides. In dim holes in the wall are the Arab shops, in cramped, confined bazars selling a medley behind which the Arab dealer squats and dreams with his eyes full of shadows. To the Arab the bazar is not so much of a shop for commercial gain as a stall in which he can play the role of a spectator in life, where he can sit and watch the population pass up and down, where he can watch the waiting lines of water-carriers at the fountains, where he can hear the news of the quarter and where his friends can always come and talk with him over his counter. It is a social institution.

PROVING WADE SUB-NORMAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 6.—Efforts by counsel for the defense to show that Elwood B. Wade, milk dealer, accused of having brutally murdered George B. Nott, is weak minded, with the inference that he was irresponsible at the time of the alleged crime, took up the greater part of today's forenoon in the "jazz pianola" murder trial.

Wade's wife testified that, not until she had married Wade, did she find out he had been unable to read the many ardent love letters she had sent him during their three months courtship. She not only had to teach him how to read, she said, but also had to show him the fundamentals of arithmetic. He proved a hopeless pupil, she testified.

Prior to Mrs. Wade's story, the defendant's aged parents had testified that Wade "had the mind of a child." His mother said he could not even learn a prayer.

The defense scored an important point when it established that Wade's paternal grandmother is at present in an insane asylum, suffering from melancholia, and that his maternal grandfather died of paresis.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 6.—Price changes were of a mixed character at the opening of the stock market today, further scattered liquidation of weak holdings causing declines in some issues, while overnight developments induced speculative buying which was most pronounced in the copper stocks. That group generally indicated that the announcement of the agreement to restrict production and curtail sales had already exerted its influence in causing advances in the copper stocks in the past two days and has to a great extent been discounted. Inspiration, however, was picked out as a low cost producer, and as being in a position to receive most benefit from the agreement and rose 1 point to 34¾. American Smelting moved up 1¼ to 38⅞. Steel Common fell ⅛ to 81⅝ and then rose to 82¼. Baldwin Locomotive ranged from 86¾ to 88. The motor stocks were in scant supply and a moderate demand was sufficient to put Studebaker up 1⅝ to 48 and Pierce-Arrow rose 1 point to 22½. American Woolen was in demand, advancing 1 point to 62.

Although the market showed a varying tendency all through the forenoon, there was evidence of a broadening demand and a decided firm tone prevailed in nearly all the important issues. The motor stocks showed a good deal of vigor and those issues made additional gains. Mexican Petroleum sold off from 155¾ to 152½. The steel industrials were fairly well held at around yesterday's final prices.

The irregularity of the forenoon was followed by a buoyant tone during the forenoon, with the railway and rubber stocks most active.

The market closed strong; government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds strong.

FINDS BERLIN MUCH CHANGED

Great Houses in Wilhelmstrasse Are Occupied by Civil Servants and Hum With the Tap of Typewriters — Legend of Kaiserism Not Only Lost, but Degraded by the Ignoble End of the Kaiser's Reign.

Berlin, says Noel Buxton, writing in the Manchester Guardian, is much different from the Berlin of thirty years ago.

"At my first visit, in 1890, Bismarck had just fallen and the hopes of the wilder spirits were set upon the young man whose white plume flashed past down the Linden and whose restless personality was already attracting the reverence of the less reflective sections of German royalty," he says.

"The hopes of the warlike and the autocrat were to find themselves only too well fulfilled in this apt instrument of their schemes. Six years later the Jameson Raid furnished the first opportunity to make Europe uneasy.

"From the Kruger telegram to Algeciras and Agadir the emperor supplied periodical food to the militarists of every country, till at last the military machine which had been fashioned was set in motion to the devastation of Europe and the jeopardizing of its civilization. And now the whole of this episode is closed, and no one can visit Berlin without experiencing the pleasant sensation of seeing the headquarters of militarism cleared of its evil genius. The reality, indeed, surpasses the expectation.

"Consider how far militarism had developed from its status at the beginning of the episode of 1896 till it reached its culmination in 1914. The doctrine of divine right had taken firm hold in spite of the growth of modern thought and the movements of labor. The very burgomasters were not responsible to the people of their towns but to the autocracy. The reichstag itself was powerless. The sole curtailment of Junker domination was represented by a diminutive tax on land, which was only conceded in order to bargain for a great increase of the army.

Change is Desolating.

"From the conservative point of view how desolating is the change! The police and the soldiers with shining helmets are no longer to be seen. The 'safety police' on rare occasions are seen slouching along in pairs. The walls of the chief buildings are spattered with bullet marks, and the Palace—from which in 1890 the emperor had with a field glass successfuly detected the unfastened button of a sentry of the guardroom 300 yards away—has its doors in ruin, while the interior has been pillaged by a rabble.

"The great houses in the Wilhelmstrasse, formerly the seats of the mighty, are now occupied by civil servants and hum with the tap of the typewriter. The Palace, with lovely gardens stretching out to the Thiergarten, formerly the abode of the chief of the emperor's household, now contains Ebert, the ex-harness maker, the unassuming and cheerful friend of labor delegates at international conferences. Here, with the leaders of the Majority Socialist party, we entered from the garden door, unchallenged by any sentry from the guardhouse, and enjoyed the charming hospitality of the saddler and his wife, whose dignity as a hostess no empress of the past has exceeded. At an alfresco tea we discussed with Socialist members of the Reichstag (including women members concerned with relief work for the hungry children) the immediate problems of Socialist Germany.

In another of the palaces of Berlin, the residence of the president of the Reichstag, we dined with the new President Loebe, who is so well known in British labor quarters. The shades of former aristocratic presidents must have experienced horror as they witnessed the party of Socialist M. P.'s talking familiarly with the waiters, some of whom were delighted to show off to English guests the English which they learned in London hotels.

Women in Reichstag.

"A visit to the reichstag reveals another revolution, displayed in the presence of great numbers of women members, forming a considerable percentage of the whole chamber—women who in Germany were until yesterday held in subservience, and who now obtain from the electors a degree of confidence which is not yet the portion of women in England.

"Titles and privileges mean nothing. The churches are disestablished, with the happy result that even in the Prussian Lutheran church genuine movements sympathetic with labor are growing up. The rich have to pay a crushing capital levy, and in the smartest restaurants persons who two years ago were reigning sovereigns and for whom the management kept the table vacant on such a day of theirs are now treated as mere men.

"Above all, the legend of kaiserism is not only lost, but degraded by the ignoble end of the kaiser's reign. The shame of his flight eats into the soul even of those few who wish the monarchy restored. There are, of course, those who (perhaps with reason) deplore the loss of order and public discipline, but we heard no proposal for its restoration more startling than the appointment of a President for life, in order that some sense of authority and continuity might be maintained, and for this post the most imposing candidate suggested was a theologian, Professor Harnack.

"There are, of course, elements which cherish hopes of the restoration of the old regime. Their flag was prematurely raised at the Kapp revolution, and by its ineptitude and failure their last hopes were dashed. That revolution, by the way, was defeated in a strangely interesting way. Reliance had been placed upon the great landowners and their power to influence the workers on their estates, but the schemers counted without their host.

"The farm workers, who had hitherto been forbidden by law to form any association, had immediately utilised their new freedom to form a union, and instead of marching to the orders of the landlord they joined in the general strike. The counter-revolution was defeated by the direct action of the agricultural laborers.

"What a gulf lies between the past and the present, with its preoccupation in social problems, its fears of communism on one side and of reaction on the other, fears which persist, although discredited by the small Communist poll at the recent elections and by the failure of Dr. Kapp, but which are overshadowed in these days of broken nerve by thoughts of Communist Russia or of landlordist Poland.

"Of the four revolutions which I have seen the German alone appears well based. Here you are not dealing with an unstable people, as in the case of 'the fool fury of the Seine' of which Tennyson wrote, but with a people who, even in revolution, maintained a sense of order. In Berlin, during the hottest moments of fighting, those who watched the traffic at great crossings in the center of the town saw that no driver, though the police had disappeared, ever swerved from his right position in the road. In Leipsic, where the 'rolls of honor' just inside the doors of the University building are riddled with bullets, a truce was called in the street fighting for two hours each morning in order that the women might do their shopping."

WOMAN STOLE FOR CHILD

Female Thief Wept Bitterly When Captured—Forced to Steal.

Breaking down and weeping bitterly after being caught by Elmer Rowe in the act of rifling his room, Marie Watson of San Francisco told of a starving babe and her own destitution and of being forced to steal to provide food for herself and child.

Young Rowe was awakened by a noise in his bedroom and thought he was dreaming when he saw a woman rifling his pockets. He jumped up and she fled to the dining room, where he captured her after a battle in which she scratched, kicked and bit in an effort to free herself.

SLEEPWALKER KILLS WIFE

Chicago Tailor Also Stabs Himself to Death.

John Slepicka, a tailor, living in Berwyn, a Chicago suburb, stabbed his wife to death and then killed himself while sleepwalking early in the morning, according to Mrs. Marie Wagner, mother of Mrs. Slepicka, who found the bodies.

Slepicka, she said, had been a sleepwalker for months, and had frequently expressed fear that his habit might lead to tragedy.

She wrote the former soldier and a correspondence followed that resulted in the wedding.

Ancient Game of Hop-Scotch.

HEALTH TALKS AT PHOENICIA

The teachers of the fourth supervisory district of Ulster county met at Phoenicia for a conference on physical education Tuesday, January 4. The conference opened at 10 o'clock with Miss Mae Scheel of Flushing, L. I., in charge. The morning session, as usual, was occupied by giving out and explaining the work for the following month.

Miss Scheel emphasized the importance of teaching health habits through plays and dramas. Health playlets may be obtained from the National Tuberculosis Association, 381 Fourth avenue, New York city, or from the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, 69 Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Another method of interesting the children in health habits is to have them compose rhymes adopted from "Mother Goose." Miss Scheel read some of these which had been selected from various pupils' work. One of them follows:

Little Miss Mabel sits at the table
Drinking her milk each day.
She likes it I know,
For it makes her grow
And ready for work or play.

The importance of every school having a first aid kit for accidents was mentioned. The simplest outfit consists of iodine, adhesive tape, gauze, and absorbent cotton. These should be placed in a box neatly labelled and kept ready for emergencies.

Miss Scheel gave another "chalk talk" on "The Decayed Tooth and the Garbage Can."

These "talks" furnish an excellent method of calling the attention of the pupils to special health matters.

"Teaching Health" is a pamphlet for the use of teachers that can be obtained by writing to the Bureau of Education, Dept. of the Interior, Washington, D. C.

"Action Stories" is the title of another helpful booklet furnished by the Military Training Commission, Albany, N. Y.

During the last part of the forenoon period the teachers were divided into squares and given opportunities for practice teaching under the supervision of Miss Scheel.

In the afternoon the various games were taught by the instructor and explained.

A rising vote of thanks for Miss Scheel's efficient and careful instruction was taken at the close of the afternoon session.

The regents' examinations will be held during the week of January 17-21 at the following places: Pine Hill, Phoenicia, West Shokan, Woodstock.

The next conference dates are as follows: Phoenicia, Wednesday, February 23; Ashokan, Thursday, February 24.

Fake and Truth About the Aspen.

The aspen leaf is said to quiver because the cross of the crucifixion was made of this wood. The fact is that the leaf is broad, and placed on a long leaf-stock so flexible as scarcely to be able to support it in an upright position. The upper part of the stalk is flattened, and, being at right angles with the leaf, is peculiarly liable to be moved by the faintest breath of air.

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BILLY BUGLER.

"I have been told," said Billy Bugler, "that I might tell another story of some of the things I do.

Like a Lady.

"I think perhaps it might interest boys and girls to hear of how I go to the soda water fountain with my missy.

"She is very fond of soda water. She doesn't lap it up like I do, for she eats like a lady, and I eat like a dog, but she enjoys it, and she never wastes a scrap of it; no, never a scrap of it, or a drop of it, or a piece of it, or whatever way you wish me to speak of it. What I mean is that she doesn't leave any behind!

"Well, I go with her to the soda fountain, and I stand before it, and I hold my head on one side and then on the other, and I beg a little, too.

"Then my missy has a little saucer with vanilla ice cream upon it and some sauce upon that which she gives to me. She calls it a sundae, but I don't mind what they call it, as long as I have it. That is the most important thing, as you can understand.

"You've all heard, I believe, that I am a Boston bull dog, with a white head and chest and white paws. The rest of me is brindle colored, I believe they say!

"And you've heard of how I like the wind and the fresh air and the ocean and the ocean bathing.

"And I'd like to tell you, before I forget it, that when my missy goes out I sit up in a seat by the window, and there I watch for her to come back. Sometimes I take a little nap, but I go back to my seat again, and when she is coming down the street she sees me sitting there, and when I see her I jump down and go to the door, so as to be ready to meet her, and to tell her how glad I am to see her.

"Once in awhile I'm napping when she is coming back, and then she calls me, and how quickly I wake up, so I can greet her.

"I'd like to tell you something else. I believe there are different kinds of people. Some of them don't like dogs, and like to see them muzzled, even if they are in the country, where they don't get sick or wild, and couldn't do the harm they might do in the city.

"And some, when they have dogs, put on tight muzzles, so they can't yawn at all when they're sleepy and can't breathe with their mouths open and with tongues out, as dogs must breathe when it is hot.

"For dogs feel the heat, too.

"When I see such people I open my big eyes very wide with surprise, and I say to them as best I can:

"How can you help but like dogs?"

"My missy wanted me to tell you how much I like riding in automobiles. I snort with pleasure and I look at everything we pass by.

"Most dogs do enjoy automobile riding. But then we haven't lost our simple tastes because of it. We like bones, and chasing after sticks, and all such nice games.

"When my missy has been away for a whole day I run around in circles when I see her coming, and I have even been known to break my leash when some one was taking me to meet her and when I saw her first.

"I didn't mean to break my leash, but when I saw her I gave one great bound of joy and ran up to her.

"I Watch."

"There is one thing, though, that I cannot understand, and that is about clothes.

"One time my missy invites me up in her lap, and then another time she will say:

"'Not this time, Billy Bugler, for your missy has her best dress on, and your little feet might tear it without meaning to, or they might be a little soiled, even if you are as clean a little dog as there ever was.

"I don't see the difference between best clothes and old clothes. I like hats, because hats mean a walk out-of-doors, as a rule.

"But as far as best clothes and old clothes are concerned, I cannot see any difference.

"They're all the same to me, and I love my missy's lap whether she has on her best skirt or her old one. I can't seem to change about that!"

Camel's Foot a Wonder.

The camel's foot is like a soft cushion, peculiarly well adapted to the gravel and sands over which it is constantly walking. During a single journey through the Sahara, having have worn out three sets of shoes, while the camel's feet were not even sore.

Familiar Incident.

"I understand the platform on which a candidate was speaking broke down under him." "Nothing unusual," commented Senator Sorghum. "I have very seldom known a candidate who did not fall off his platform at one time or another."

Montaigne and His Cat.

When my cat and I entertain each other with mutual apish tricks, as playing with a garter, who knows but that I make my cat more sport than she makes me? Shall I conclude her to be simple, that has her time to begin or refuse to play as freely as I myself have? Nay, who knows but that it is a defect of my not understanding her language (for doubtless cats talk and reason with one another) that we agree no better? And who knows but that she pities me for being no wiser than to play with her and laughs and censures my folly for making sport with her when we two play together.—From Montaigne's Essays.

Best Lubricating Oils.

The superiority of fixed or fatty oils over mineral oils for lubrication has been attributed to the influence of free fatty or organic acids, and the addition to a mineral oil of 2 per cent of a common fatty acid is stated to have reduced friction 26 per cent. The quality of the mineral oil can be variously adapted by a suitable selection of acid. Advantages claimed by the patentees include the cheapness of the superior lubricating powers imparted to mineral oils, and the use of small quantities of low-grade fatty acids to replace the much greater quantities of fatty oils that can be released for margarine, and other food products.

Earning His Money.

Tommy has a little friend who acts as chauffeur when they go for a ride in his toy car. One day Tommy went into his uncle's home to get warm leaving Billy on the curb as usual. It was a cold day and the uncle remonstrated, telling him to go out and bring him in. "Oh, him's all right," replied Tommy. "He will have to get used to it or he won't get his twenty cents a week."

K. H. S. IN TWO GAMES FRIDAY

Friday is to be a busy day for the Kingston High School basketball team as they intend to take on two teams that afternoon and evening.

In the afternoon the Maroon and White quintet will line up against the High School five from Millbrook. This will be the initial appearance of the Millbrook team here on the basketball court. However, it will not be the first time that teams representing the two schools have met.

Last summer, the Millbrook boys played two games of baseball here in one day. They won one of the two games and put up a good brand of ball in both game. If they can play basketball as well as they could play baseball, the game on Friday afternoon will be a thriller.

In the evening the local boys will play the Saugerties High School basketballers. The Saugerties boys have been playing a fast game throughout the season and have some of their last year's men in uniform. They have always put up a good game whenever they have played here and Friday night's game should be no exception.

The Maroon and White boys have not been asleep at any time this year and have been practicing hard and faithfully for the past few weeks. They have only played three games, but they showed up well in all three of the games. They beat the Alumni and the Walden High School quintets by good, safe margins and only met defeat when they bucked up against the fast and far-famed Triangles or Tigers, as they are known in the Colonial League of this city. It was no disgrace to be beaten by such a group of players, as the Tigers have not lost a game in the Colonial League.

Coach Hall has been putting the squad through some good, hard practices and his careful training of the team is bringing excellent results. He feels confident that the boys can easily win their games on Friday and those who have seen them play seem to feel the same way about it.

The afternoon game will start about 3:15 and the evening game will commence promptly at 7.45.

Following the game, there will be a private dance in the gymnasium for the high school students and the members of the K. H. S. K. A. and U. A. Alumni. Balfe's orchestra will furnish the music for the dance.

ELKS' REGULARS WIN ANOTHER

With an average of 202 pins a game in a three-game contest, Homer J. Emerick of this city, a member of the Elks' Regular bowling team, once more showed he is a star bowler. Tuesday night at the Elks' Club alleys when the Regulars bowled the Sapp Antlers and won the contest by 48 pins. Emerick made an individual total of 606 pins and saved the contest for his teammates. Dr. Lown of the Antlers did good work for Sapp's strong arm team, being but 34 pins behind Emerick, the anchor man for the Regulars. Lown bowling a total of 572, being an average of 190 2-3. Hymes of the Regulars also did well, getting a total of 501, or an average of 167. The following scores tell the story of the contest:

MANY BASEBALL TRADES PENDING

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 6.—With nearly every major league manager eager to dicker for new players, trading is likely to be brisk during the big baseball meeting in Chicago next week.

There are a number of payers in both big leagues slated for the market. Some of them will go under the hammer because they do not fit in with the plans of new managers. Others will be traded or sold because they must step aside to make way for younger and more spirited talent.

Ty Cobb, new pilot of the Tigers, Fred Mitchell, of the Braves, Bill Donovan of the Phillies, Lee Fohl, of the Browns, Hugh Duffy of the Red Sox and Johnny Evers of the Cubs will do some revamping in the personnel of their teams. Evers and Mitchell, in particular hope to rebuild the Cubs and Braves in due course of time. And this means trades, sales and purchases.

The trade hungry managers will not confine their activities to the majors either. There are a number of players now under contract or on the reserve lists of big minor league clubs who would look well in major league uniforms.

Veteran major league players who are said to be listed as trading material are:

Rube Marquard, late of Brooklyn, now with the Reds; Eppa Rixey, of the Phillies, Max Carey, of Pittsburgh; Dode Paskert, Fred Merkle and Carley Herzog of the Cubs; Rabbit Maranville of the Braves; Mike Gonzales of the Giants, Bobby Veach of Detroit and Wallie Pipp of the Yankees.

Maranville is in demand. Brooklyn and Pittsburgh both want him. And so does New York. According to the wise ones, the Giants have the inside track. Should New York land Maranville it is possible that Davey Bancroft will be used in a trade for some other player. Incidentally there may be several deals in which three or more clubs will figure.

Manager Gibson, of the Pirates, has several deals in the making and is expected to announce them during the Chicago meeting.

TIGERS AND CENTRALS WIN

Is rather a long and odd word, but it means PEP. Are you sure your books are not being kept in the same proportion as these two words. They both mean the same, but, PEP requires about ¼ the time to write, and is more readily understood. It is remarkable what good results are often accomplished by a few changes in bookkeeping methods. Now is the time to make your changes for 1921. My motto is: "Not too much system—just system enough." Over 20 years practical experience.
